Communion Reflection

For a Christian, love is the greatest and the most important virtue of all. Without it, all my words, no matter how wise and clever they may be, are just so much noise.

Without it, even if I had faith strong enough to work a miracle, that faith would be worthless.

Without it, all my deeds, even if they were the greatest ever done on this earth, would not do me the slightest bit of good.

Love means being patient and kind. It means never being jealous or boastful. It means never being rude or selfish. It means that I do not take offence easily. It means that I am not resentful. It means that I rejoice in the goodness of others and take no delight in their sins.

Love is not hard though it is tough. It means that I am always ready to excuse, to trust, to hope and to endure whatever comes.

There are three things that last: faith, hope and love. Love is the greatest of these.
