

Research

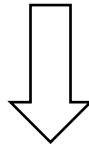

Research is exploring products (including food) and how they work.

It is done to make new products.

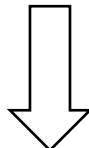

Design

People use their research ideas to create a product.

Make

To form something by putting parts together to create your product.

Evaluate

To reflect upon and consider how to improve a product.

